new additions for 2000

changes this year

The newest and most controversial addition to our school is the fence. It surrounds the entire campus and stays locked throughout the day. Most students do not appreciate with the fence and have found it to be irratating and inconvient while others feel that it causes no apparent problems. The original intent was to set up a fence that would prevent vandalism but recent incidents have shown it to be ineffective. Whether or not the fence is effective, it is the most apparent change this year.

One of the more minor changes has been the new grading scale. The new grading scale consists of a six block rubric which grades on two distinct factors which are conventions and rhetoric. Every paper turned in is returned with fraction grade followed by a letter grade. This makes grading for teachers a bit more difficult since the teachers always must be percise. Unfortunately this makes passing certain classes far more difficult since the criteria by which they used to be graded on has been expanded.

why girls go in groups

secrets behind the closed doors revealed

We're finally letting the cat out of the bag. Girls don't leave the table in groups to go to bathroom because we're silly (although we know you guys think so). The truth is that behind that tacky door lies a world that the male gender never dreamed of. Should Fabio bring me a latte? Or should Jean-Luc give me a foot massage? No wonder we take our time in there!

Community service is a physical activity that demonstrates involvement and dedication to your community. Many good examples of community service that students have participated in include Student Advisory Board of Education (SABE), spring clean up, volunteer work at the Water's Edge Retirement Home and countless others. At least 20 hours of community service are required to graduate from Alameda High School and with so many options it can be an educational and rewarding experience.

Cody Blakely

The students at Alameda High School know what it's like to dread the morning light. Mornings at A.H.S are relaxed. Students hangout in front of the school, on campus in the hallways chatting with fellow classmates or finishing the last minute homework they didn't finish the night before. Let's not forget the hangouts for breakfast: Jack-n-the-Box,McDonalds and Burger King are the top choices. When the 8:00 bell rings the school day begins. For some it has began at 7:00 when the 0 period bell rang, for classes such as: Current Life, Drivers Ed, P.E., and Advanced Band.

year in reveiw

- The Year 2000 has finally arrived after months of wondering about and preparing for Y2K. What happened? NOTHING! There wasn't even a flicker of the lights; all of the excitement and worrying was over nothing. Even though nothing of mention happened on New Year's, this year is very important.
- Not only are we starting a new millennium, we're having the presidential election. This has the possibility to change our entire future. Al Gore and George Bush are the front runners over candidates Bill Bradley and John McCain.
- For the first time in history a First Lady Hillary Clinton, is running for office, seeking a Senate seat for New York.
- Many new trends started this year. Women's sports took off, becoming more popular than ever before. The Women's World Cup and the WNBA showed the world that women have a future in team sports.
- Along with all of the good there is some bad. We said good by to many people this year: Payne Stewrt, and John F. Kennedy both died young in plane crashes, and the number of school shooting is rising.
- We also watched as NBA, and NHL superstars, Michael Jordan and Wayne Gretzky retired.
- There were also many important changes this year at Alameda High. The most noticeable and controversial change at Alameda High was the fence, but there are many changes that are not as widely known. This year many students, parents, and teachers volunteered their time to wire the school to the Internet. Others worked on a grant for Digital High School (DHS), a grant that would bring more technology to our schoo

1) JFK died unexpectedly when his plane crashed off the coast of Martha's Vineyard. 2) Vice President Al Gore is in the running for President. 3) Regis Philbin and ABC start a new trend. "Who Wants to be a Millionaire" is an instant hit and networks all over create their own Millionaire shows trying to have a hit. 4) George W. Bush takes after his father and runs for president.

Senior

High school happens once in a life time. For the class of 2000, the past four years have been memorable and exciting. The orange lockers and the crowded hallways have become familiar sights. The class of 2000 has always been on the cutting edge. Whether it has been homecoming floats, class competitions, or just plain spirit, the class of 2000 has shared a united identity. Through the laughter, tears, and friendship, these four years became a stepping stone for seniors to grow, while preparing themj to break through into new challenges.

to the class of 2000...

Throughout the past four years, we have grown to love and hate one another, but as our graduation date approaches we realize it should not matter. There is an enormous world that is waiting for us to enter, and it does not know who stole whose boyfriend or girlfriend. For the past twelve years we have prepared for this wonderful day to arrive. The time has finally come for us to enter the world and start a new life. Though times have been wild and lessons have been helpful, they were all just stepping stones to graduation. After this year, the decisions will be ours. Mom and Dad have helped us this far, and now it is time to show them what we have learned in return. Congratulations to the class of 2000, it is now time to find your place in the world.

Freshmen Year is a year full of new experiences. It's the beginning of four long, work-filled years. This is the time to learn your place for the following years at A.H.S. But let's not forget the good times we had- the dances, the parties and just the all around fun.

Senior Life Skills

Renee Bugbee

The students in the Senior Life Skills class spend their day shopping for and preparing their lunches, going to the library, and visiting the YMCA. By doing these and other practical and, most importantly, fun, activities, the students in room 401 learn great skills for life. Most obvious of these is the student store, open during the school's break. Providing muffins, drinks, and chips to fellow students and teachers to keep them going during the grueling day, these bright leaders of the future also learn math and social skills necessary for everyday life. But its not all work and no play. They'll find any excuse to have a party. Attending school activities, including dances and sports events, the students of the Senior Life Skills class will go where ever fun will follow.

Standing behind the pedestal, walking the hallways, and showing the way for the students, are the faculty and staff of AHS. They teach us, help us, and inspire us. Without them, we would not have the great gift of knowledge. Although we do not always show it, the students of AHS greatly appreciate the benevolence that these hard-working people show us. They are definitely leaving their mark on our lives.

THE LAST VARSITY FOOTBALL TEAM OF THE CENTURY

As the football team started working out over the summer, things were looking good. The team gathered everyday at the weight room and Thompson Field to prepare themselves for the upcoming season. When school started things began to look bad for the Hornets. The School Board denied Alameda High the ability to put lights at Thompson Field. As the season progressed, the Hornets found themselves in a very tough league. This was an emotional season, playing in games that were extremely close. The heart of the Hornet came out during the last game of the season: Under certain circumstances, only 13 players were eligible to participate. The Hornets dominated the game, but within the last second of the game the Hornets' defense couldn't hold Kennedy's potent offense, causing a 26-20 loss.

This season the women's waterpolo team had a lot to learn. After half of the team graduated last year, the new group needed to learn to play as a unit. "I'm really proud of how the team has improved this season, and if we continue to work together we will be really good in years to come," said team co-captain Meghan Colghan, when asked her feelings about the season. Co-captain Shelley Mills said, "Besides the fact that I'm really proud of the team, I think it's really neat that we are starting a legacy at Alameda High School. I'm happy that I got to play on the women's waterpolo team, and help establish the program. I'm really looking forward to seeing how the team does in the future."

women's varsity soccer

Moving beyond a lackluster beginning, the Alameda High School's women's varsity soccer team strove for excellence and demonstrated it possible. As the season progressed, the team's energy culminated in its consummate explosion. The women overcame numerous obstacles to bring in a winning record. Their hard work really paid off near the end of the season when they beat our rival school, Encinal.

men's tennis

This year's men's tennis team has gotten off to a very challenging start. Many of last year's star players have graduated, leaving a predominately freshmen team. Though green, this group still shows talent and strength. Every day, the young men meet at the court and play their hearts out, spending hours on their swings, serves, and sportsmanship. Coach Hennessee and Coach White lead their players to victory, and with all of this endurance and team work, the promising AHS men's tennis team will surely pull through this tough season.

women's swimming

The women's swim team this year has made a fast race to the finish. They worked hard and strived to be the best team once again in the Alameda Contra Costa Athletic League. Lots of sweat, dedication and perseverance have lead them up and down the swim lanes again and again. Hakim worked hard on getting the team into the mind set of winning. He gave the girls many words of wisdom. One day before a meet, he explained that not only should the AHS women's swim team beat the other teams, the other teams should be asking themselves, "why did we even show up?! Overall, the team worked on attendance, team spirit, and making sure every point counts during the meets. It was a great year of learning about one another, and realizing that winning means working together.

This year's men swimming team was very successful. The season went very well. Even though they lost to Encinal, they kept up the good work and won the rest of their league matches. They strived to be the best and worked well as a team. Mr. Rodd coached enthusiastically. The freshmen who were just starting learned what it was like to be on a high school swim team. They definitely proved themselves well and competed great. As for the returning members of the team, they competed another great season swimming their best. track and field

Track and field is a sport that requires great endurance, strength and swiftness. Dedication and success go hand in hand for any sport, especially track and field. Whereas other sports are games in which athletes compete against each other, track and fielders take the ultimate challenge by competing against themselves. Every meet is a chance for athletes to increase their skills and achieve their personal best. Although these young men and women compete against themselves, there is a feeling of togetherness amongst them. They put their hearts and souls into the sport, practicing every day, striving to be the best.

Expect the unexpected when you sign up and try out for a sport at Alameda High School. A huge amount of preparation, support, determination, and skill goes into the creation of a successful team. Overall, sports allow the students to gain confidence and responsibility. Sports are great extra-curricular activities to have in a learning atmosphere. You'll see that it's not all about kicking or throwing a ball and running until you lose your breath. Behind the scenes, students commit to a productive and meaningful way to spend their time. Since there is a wide range of sports at Alameda High, more and more students get involved with them. Before and After the games, coaches and players put their efforts into having a rewarding year.

taking charge of the future

It's hard work but it pays off to see all the things that you accomplished

Leadership is fun but it is a big commitment and there is a lot of outside work.

Being in leadership is a lot of fun but projects like Homecoming are a lot of hard work.

Leadership is fun because you get to know what the whole school wants and help make a difference.

Amanda Brown and Adrian Diaz work hard on getting the most recent project done.

"Wow! You did all that?" Roland Manuel stares in amazement as Morgan Cepparo takes notes and finishes an assignment on one of the computers in the leadership classroom.

Navid Sarrafzadeh and Shawn King break a sweat as they work hard on getting the latest projects done.

"Aren't they work!" Students work together in order to get their class work done.

Leadership is a very demanding class. Students work with each other and accomplish large projects such as Homecoming and dances. Even though the class involves a lot of work which is done after school and on weekends, the student's rewards are obvious. While having a fun time interacting with their peers, they make a great deal of differences throughout the school. Overall, the Leadership class does a great job in leading our school into the future.

[illegible] Cam-Vi Le [illegible] Spencer Deleon [illegible]

"Must you take my picture?" wonders hard worker Anthea Lee as she trys her best to get her work done.

The Oak Leaf staff strove to keep students of Alameda High informed with interesting articles, school and community events, opinion pieces, reviews, and updates on sports. Ms. Piazza was brave enough to take over Ms. Jones' position of being the advisor of The Oak Leaf. Her job was complicated by the administration collapsing the two journalism classes into one undifferentiated group.

Journalism students learned responsibility and time management skills. They had to meet nine stressful deadlines, often staying at school until ten o'clock at night. Putting the issues together was a team effort. All of the students combined their creative skills to produce The Oak Leaf. Looking back at this year's newspapers, all of the time and work was worth it.

Senior Sasha Talcott reflected on her past year as Editor-in-Chief. "Journalism. How do I love thee? Let me count the ways. It provides constant stress, deadline pressure, long hours, and the wrath of those who don't like the paper. But it also is absolutely the best thing I could have done in four years. It has taught me how to write, edit and work with people, and given me a chance to get to know a diverse and interesting group of students."

Before distribution, Eyad Latif and Katy Wong neatly fold the papers.

"Though I'm missing you...I'll find a way to get through...Living without you...'Cause you were my sister, my strength, and my pride...Only God may know why, still I will get by. I would've known, that you had to go...But so suddenly, so bad...How could it be, a straight memory worthy of...All that we had made...Now that you're gone, everyday I go on...But life's just the same...I'm so empty inside, and my tears I can't hide...But I'll try to face the pain. There were so many things that we could have shared...And time was on our side...Now that you're gone, I can still feel you near...So I'll smile, with every tear I cry. How sweet, were the losses to spare? But I'll wait for the day...When I'll see you again..."

I'll be missing you

What a great Yearbook year! We had brand new, faster, smarter computers which we purchased out of our own operating funds in order to run more sophisticated software and produce even better books. This year's staff was amazing--a focused, creative, dedicated and fun group who took full advantage of the new computers' abilities. They took learning about page layout, graphic design, fonts, copy and caption writing, photography, copyright law and deadlines with zest and put together this polished, professional-looking book. My special thanks to all the editors, particularly Laura and Jamie, for their extremely hard work. We hope this book will be memorable for the next 1000 years.

Judith Klinger

Congratulations to this year's staff, you have adjusted well to the pressure of the deadlines and have worked as a team, helping each other finish pages. I hope you choose to return next year with more new ideas to create a more magnificant book. To the returning staff, you not only have helped train and hold together the new members but have adjusted to new computers and software while turning out some of the best pages you ever did. Catlin, Ken, Carl, Jessica I wish you the best of luck next year and thank you for all your hard work you've put in over the past two years. Each of your sections and pages have come out terrifically and you have much to be proud of. Ms. Klinger, once again you have succeeded in choosing staff equal to the tasks presented them and I thank you for the past three years. Jamie, this year has been tough and hectic, but this book is something to be proud of. I wish you and Ashley the best of luck next year.

Laura Byington

This first year as Editor-in-Chief of our hard working yearbook staff has been a wonderfully challenging one. We ran into a few problems and stayed a few extra hours, but in the end we got it all done. To the seniors in this years staff, Ken, Carl, Jessica, Catlin, I will miss working with all of you. Everyone of our staffers, returning or new, have left a lasting impression with me. Thank you all for creating such an awesome book and special thanks to our Tech amanuensis, Bruce Wong, for his tireless hours of answering all our questions. Lastly, thank you Ms. Klinger for helping Laura and me fumble through out first year as Editor-in-Chief. I'll miss all of you staffers who wont be returning to us next year and I welcome those who will come back with fresh ideas so that next years book can be even better. Good Luck c/o 2000. Remember Catlin, the world is in your hands now!
